

(The following text is written in a very dense, cursive script, likely a medieval or early modern manuscript, and is largely illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.)

(This section contains faint, illegible text, possibly bleed-through or a very light second draft, located below the main body of text.)

