

(The following text is a dense manuscript written in a cursive script, likely a form of shorthand or a specific dialect. It consists of approximately 30 lines of text, which are largely illegible due to the extreme cursive and the bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.)

(This column contains marginal notes or corrections written in the same cursive script as the main body of text. The handwriting is dense and difficult to decipher.)

