

To
monday evening
yesterday we left
Mula

at 11 o'clock we crossed the river and went up the valley of the Tajo to Alcalá de Henares where we took a boat and went across the river to the town of Cuéllar where we had dinner at the Hotel del Prado. After dinner we took a walk through the streets of the town and then went to the church of San Juan Bautista where we saw the remains of the original Gothic choir and the organ loft which was built by the architect of the cathedral. The interior of the church is very simple and consists of a single nave with two side chapels. The choir is made of wood and is supported by four pillars. The organ loft is made of wood and is supported by four pillars. The church has a tiled roof and is surrounded by a stone wall.
