

A circular, heavily worn and faded stamp, likely a library or archival mark, with illegible text and a central emblem. The stamp is dark and circular, with a rough, irregular border. Inside the circle, there is a central emblem or design that is too faded to identify. Surrounding the emblem is text, which is also illegible due to fading. The stamp appears to be on a light-colored, textured surface, possibly paper or cardstock.

August
Breschewitz

Mr. Wm. Henry & Pedro Niata. Dr. Wm. Henry & Pedro Niata.
 Jan. 1860. London.

