

1771. The first of the year was a very cold one. The snow lay on the ground for several weeks. The wind was very strong and the weather was very disagreeable. The people were very much distressed. The crops were all ruined. The cattle were all starved. The people were all dead. The country was all a desert. The sea was all ice. The sky was all black. The earth was all white. The air was all cold. The sun was all dead. The moon was all black. The stars were all dim. The world was all dark. The people were all dead. The country was all a desert. The sea was all ice. The sky was all black. The earth was all white. The air was all cold. The sun was all dead. The moon was all black. The stars were all dim. The world was all dark.
