

Com

gefa

Handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Gothic or Carolingian minuscule. The text is arranged in several lines and includes decorative flourishes at the end of the lines. The words are difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and some ink bleed-through.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, similar to the first block. It features a large initial letter and is followed by several lines of text with decorative flourishes.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, continuing the sequence. It includes a large initial and is followed by several lines of text with decorative flourishes.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, the final block on the page. It features a large initial and is followed by several lines of text with decorative flourishes.

