

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a Dutch or Flemish manuscript. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words underlined. The script is dense and characteristic of the early modern period. The text appears to be a form or a letter, discussing various matters, possibly related to a legal or administrative context. The handwriting is somewhat stylized and difficult to read without a key, but the structure of the lines suggests a formal document.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, continuing the cursive script. It appears to be a concluding section or a signature block, with some words underlined. The script remains consistent with the rest of the page. There is a small, illegible mark or signature at the end of the line.

