

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Spanish. The text is dense and fills most of the page, with some lines starting with a large initial letter. The script is highly cursive and characteristic of the late Middle Ages. The text appears to be a formal document or a legal record, possibly a contract or a decree, given the use of terms like "seal" and "witness". The text is arranged in approximately 25 lines, with some lines being significantly longer than others. The ink is dark, and the paper shows signs of age and wear.

