

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is dense and spans most of the page. It appears to be a record of events or a legal document, with several lines of text that are somewhat obscured by ink bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The script is highly stylized and characteristic of the late 15th or early 16th century.

Handwritten signature or name, possibly 'H. de ...' or similar, written in a decorative cursive hand.

Additional handwritten text at the bottom of the page, continuing the narrative or record. This section also shows significant ink bleed-through from the reverse side, making some words difficult to decipher. The text concludes with a large, stylized flourish or signature.
