

[Faint, mostly illegible handwritten text in a historical script, possibly Latin or a Romance language, covering the majority of the page. The text is written in a cursive style and is significantly obscured by numerous white ink blotches and large areas of damage.]

[Marginal notes or a separate column of text written in the left margin, also in a historical script, partially obscured by the main text and damage.]

