

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Spanish, covering the top half of the page. The text is written in a cursive style with some decorative flourishes at the beginning. It appears to be a list or a set of instructions, possibly related to a religious or administrative context. The text is somewhat faded and difficult to read due to the age and condition of the parchment.

Second main block of handwritten text, continuing the list or instructions from the first block. It includes several lines of text, some of which are underlined or written in a larger hand. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive script.

Third main block of handwritten text, located at the bottom of the page. It includes a signature or a final statement, possibly in a larger or more formal hand. The text is partially obscured by a large tear or hole in the parchment.
