

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is densely packed and spans most of the page. It appears to be a formal communication, possibly a petition or a report, given the use of terms like "señor" and "señores". The script is highly stylized and characteristic of the late 15th or early 16th century. The text is written in dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper. There are some faint markings and bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

Handwritten text in the right margin, possibly a signature or a date. It is written in the same cursive script as the main text but is less legible due to its smaller size and the angle of the writing.

