

90

Handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Latin or Old French, with some faint bleed-through from the reverse side. The text is arranged in several lines, starting with a large initial letter.

Handwritten marginal notes on the left side of the page, including the letters 'A' and 'B'.

Second main block of handwritten text, continuing the script from the top section.

Handwritten marginal notes on the left side of the page, including the letters 'C' and 'D'.

Third main block of handwritten text, continuing the script.

Handwritten marginal notes on the left side of the page, including the letters 'E' and 'F'.

Fourth main block of handwritten text, continuing the script.

