

[The page contains dense, handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper. It appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly related to land, property, or administrative matters. The handwriting is somewhat difficult to decipher due to its cursive nature and the density of the script. There are some larger, more prominent words or phrases that stand out, such as 'proximo' and 'proprio', which might indicate relationships or ownership. The text is organized into several lines, with some lines starting with a large initial letter, possibly a section marker. The overall appearance is that of a well-used, historical document.]

