

Handwritten Latin text in a cursive script, likely from a historical manuscript. The text is dense and spans most of the page, with some lines appearing crossed out or heavily faded. The handwriting is characteristic of the late 15th or early 16th century.

