

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or legal record. The text is densely packed and spans most of the page. It appears to be a Latin document, possibly a charter or a legal decree, given the use of words like "juramentum" and "regem". The script is highly stylized and characteristic of the late medieval or early modern period. The text is written in dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed parchment. There are some faint markings and lines, possibly indicating paragraph divisions or specific sections of the document. The overall appearance is that of a well-preserved but clearly aged historical manuscript.

