

Handwritten text in an old Italian cursive script, likely a legal document or contract. The text is densely packed and spans the entire page, with some ink bleed-through from the reverse side. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher in many places.

