

The first thing I observed was the light of the sun shining upon the water and the reflection of the sky upon the surface of the sea. The water was so clear and blue that it seemed as if the sky had fallen into the sea. The sun was shining so brightly that the water seemed to be on fire. The reflection of the sun upon the water was so bright that it seemed as if the sun had fallen into the sea.
 The water was so clear and blue that it seemed as if the sky had fallen into the sea. The sun was shining so brightly that the water seemed to be on fire. The reflection of the sun upon the water was so bright that it seemed as if the sun had fallen into the sea. The water was so clear and blue that it seemed as if the sky had fallen into the sea. The sun was shining so brightly that the water seemed to be on fire.

