

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a letter or document, covering the top half of the page.

[Decorative flourish or signature]

Handwritten text block, possibly a signature or a specific section of the document, located in the middle of the page.

A large, dense block of handwritten text, possibly a main body of a letter or a detailed account, occupying the lower middle section.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, including what appears to be a signature and possibly a date or location.

