

The first part of the manuscript contains several lines of text, including the name "Leonard" and "Leonardus". The handwriting is highly decorative and cursive. There are several large, ornate initials at the beginning of sections. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper.

The second part of the manuscript is heavily obscured by a large, dense scribble of dark ink, which appears to be a correction or a deletion of the original text. This scribble covers approximately the middle third of the page.

The third part of the manuscript continues with more text, including the name "Leonardus" and "Leonardus". The handwriting remains consistent with the first part. There are some faint markings and corrections visible throughout the text.
