

SELLO QVARTO, DIEZ MARAVEDIS, AÑO DE MIL Y SEISCIENTOS Y CINQUENTA.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and some fading. It appears to contain names, titles, and possibly a list of items or conditions.

Handwritten marginal note on the left side of the page, written in a smaller cursive hand.

Handwritten marginal note on the left side of the page, continuing the notes from the previous block.

Continuation of the main handwritten text, showing further details of the document's content.

Handwritten marginal note on the left side of the page, providing additional context or commentary.

Final section of the main handwritten text, concluding the document's entries.