

This is a handwritten document, possibly a contract or a list of goods, written in an old script. The text is densely packed and largely illegible due to fading and the cursive style. It appears to contain names and quantities, such as "one hundred" and "two hundred".

Esquibbe of the of of

Faded handwritten text, possibly a list of items or a continuation of the contract. The ink is very light and the script is difficult to decipher.
