

and another by the same author comes under our review; for it is to the same author that we must attribute the following in which the author has written in a very simple style, and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

15184

He has written in a very simple style,
and in the following manner.

