

Deo in nomine Amen

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or legal record. The text is densely packed and contains several lines of script, though some parts are obscured by white marks or damage. The script appears to be from a 16th or 17th-century manuscript.

Deo in nomine Amen

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or a concluding statement. It includes the word "Geron" and other illegible characters.

