Yo el Rey Juan don de peñas... (The text is a handwritten legal document, likely a royal decree or a public deed, written in a cursive script from the late 15th or early 16th century. It discusses land grants, property, and the status of a person named Juan don de peñas. The text is partially obscured by a large, dark stain on the left side of the page.)

Yo el Rey Juan don de peñas... (The bottom of the page contains several lines of text, likely signatures or official seals, written in the same cursive script as the main text. The signatures are somewhat obscured by ink blots and fading.)
