

Handwritten text at the top of the page, likely a header or date, including "1592" and other illegible characters.

Main body of handwritten text in the upper section, partially obscured by the binding holes.

Main body of handwritten text in the lower section, continuing the narrative or list from the upper part.

