

Cl.

To

INSTRUCTIONS

In the first place, the object of the present is to give a general idea of the nature and extent of the work which is to be done, and to point out the various branches into which it is to be divided.

Art. 1.

The first object of the present is to give a general idea of the nature and extent of the work which is to be done, and to point out the various branches into which it is to be divided.

Art. 2.

The second object of the present is to give a general idea of the nature and extent of the work which is to be done, and to point out the various branches into which it is to be divided.

Art. 3.

The third object of the present is to give a general idea of the nature and extent of the work which is to be done, and to point out the various branches into which it is to be divided.

Art. 4.

The fourth object of the present is to give a general idea of the nature and extent of the work which is to be done, and to point out the various branches into which it is to be divided.

Art. 5.

The fifth object of the present is to give a general idea of the nature and extent of the work which is to be done, and to point out the various branches into which it is to be divided.

Art. 6.

By Royal Order

[Handwritten signature]

